Your letter of December 10, 1957 has been investigated and I have been asked to reply to you.

It is regrettable if you were caused any hardship, but a man of your experience can readily appreciate that plans often change with circumstances beyond our control, which is what happened in the case of the plans with which you were concerned, and this is always disappointing.

I think that our efforts to date prove our consideration for you. During your stay in Washington you were more than adequately compensated and you are still receiving assistance from us while seeking suitable employment.

I thus feel that you, as a former officer, cannot fail to understand matters in their true light and can adjust yourself to inconveniences which are not uncommon to many. This letter is delivered to you by [redacted] and any further dealings with this organization should be conducted through him.

Very truly yours,
